INFORMATION SHEET:

LEGALBRIEF ADVERTISING OPTIONS

Legalbrief is owned and managed by Juta Law. Through the highly popular Legalbrief electronic newsletters and the well-visited Legalbrief site – www.legalbrief.co.za – it is able to offer advertisers a range of solutions for the marketing of seminars, conferences, companies, services, vacancies and publications.

Legalbrief's daily electronic newsletter – Legalbrief Today – is regarded as a must-read publication for law professionals in South Africa. As such, Legalbrief has a strong reach within the law market in South Africa.

Legalbrief's various specialist weekly news services – Legalbrief Environmental, Legalbrief eLaw, Legalbrief Forensic, Legalbrief Workplace and Legalbrief LSSA Weekly – further broaden this reach into other professional interest groups. Our reach extends into the corporate market; environmental interest groups (consultancies, non-profit organisations); the new media market and high tech companies; accounting, auditing and forensic investigators; government (all levels of government); tertiary institutions; and, law professionals outside of South Africa.

The Legalbrief website contains archives of individual Legalbrief news articles within a searchable database available to subscribers. It is highly popular and is ranked as one of South Africa's top 1000 sites.

Legalbrief offers three types of paid advertising options:

1. Text-based advertisements in the Legalbrief newsletters.
2. Banner advertisements on the Legalbrief site: www.legalbrief.co.za
3. Employment advertisements on the Legalbrief site.

Please view the appropriate section in this document to find out about each type of advertising option and the applicable rate structure.

In addition, Legalbrief offers free listings via its “Events Calendar”.

Finally, advertisers need to complete the Legalbrief Advertising Order form in order to place their advert.

Type of adverts acceptable for the newsletters:

Legalbrief accepts three adverts per position per edition of a newsletter, i.e. a single newsletter edition could at most carry six advertisements, three in the main body of the newsletter and three in the sidebar. Given this limitation we try to ensure that the adverts are going to be relevant to the subscriber base.

Generally, the best type of advert for the various newsletters are those marketing conferences, seminars, courses or events that would be of interest to our subscriber base, i.e. law professionals. Placements that appear in the various specialist weekly newsletters could be subject specific rather than appealing to lawyers generally. For instance, a conference on climate change would be well-placed in the Legalbrief Environmental newsletter while a seminar on corruption would find the Legalbrief Forensic newsletter to be a good fit.

Another use is for the advertisements to be for a vacancy (specifically law-related vacancies or those covering the speciality), for instance a forensic investigator could be advertised successfully in the Legalbrief Forensic newsletter. Importantly this could be linked to the full employment placement advertised on the Legalbrief site (see Section 3 for more on this option).

A further popular use for the advertisements in the newsletters is to use the space to notify subscribers of new books or publications on offer.

Please note that Legalbrief tends to reject advertisements in the newsletters that are purely corporate branding placements – these are however acceptable for banner advertisements placed on the Legalbrief site (see section 2 for more on this option).

2 BANNER ADVERTISING ON THE LEGALBRIEF SITE

The Legalbrief website, found at www.legalbrief.co.za, combines news items from five e-newsletter publications as well as archived editions of the individual newsletters and other information relevant to the legal market. Each publication has its own homepage as well as separate archiving of reports and publications. However, the site's search facility cross-references all the sites.

The six publications are:

- Legalbrief Today (<http://Legalbrief.co.za/diary/Legalbrief-today/newsletters/>) is a daily electronic newsletter that contains executive summaries of relevant legal developments from South Africa, Africa and the rest of the world.
- Legalbrief Environmental (<http://Legalbrief.co.za/diary/Legalbrief-environmental/newsletters/>) is a weekly newsletter covering environmental, developmental and conservation news.
- Legalbrief eLaw & Management (<http://Legalbrief.co.za/diary/elaw-management/newsletters/>) is a weekly news service covering news items related to electronic law and various risks to the enterprise in terms of use of technology.
- Legalbrief Workplace (<http://Legalbrief.co.za/diary/Legalbrief-workplace/newsletters/>) is a weekly e-newsletter delivered to subscribers each Wednesday morning. The newsletter covers issues relating to labour legislation and case law, and relevant parliamentary news.
- Legalbrief Forensic (<http://Legalbrief.co.za/diary/Legalbrief-forensic/newsletters/>) is a weekly newsletter covering news items related to corruption, fraud and corporate governance.

Subscription fees apply to the Legalbrief Today, Legalbrief Forensic, Legalbrief Environmental, Legalbrief eLaw & Management and Legalbrief Workplace publications, as such, some of the articles are locked to subscribers only.

The advert in the MAIN BODY of the newsletters appears within a highlighted textbox (see sample above).

Legalbrief's visitor base

While a large portion of current Legalbrief subscribers use the site to view archives or search for older articles, site statistics reveal that many users are non-subscribers. A large portion of visitors are from South Africa, however visitors from the US, UK, the Netherlands, Australia, Canada, Germany, Brazil and New Zealand, also feature highly in our web stats. We estimate that half of the visitors are legal professionals and that the rest would be made up of government, non-profit organisations, academics, students and other interested parties.

PLACING AN ORDER

Please note that all advertising is payable in advance on presentation of a pro forma invoice unless advertisers are Juta account holders.

Juta accounts are opened subject to standard credit reference checks and approvals. In the event of non-payment the account holder will be responsible for collection and legal costs incurred and Juta may record the account holder's default with Credit Bureaus.

Advertising within the Legalbrief newsletters is very popular. Given the restriction of two main body advert and two sidebar advert per newsletter edition, space is limited and early booking of specific newsletters and dates is recommended.

Advertisers should confirm telephonically or via email their requirements prior to the completion of the order form to avoid disappointment.

Advertisers must complete the order form for their order to be placed. Advertisers should clearly indicate their payment method (via an existing account, via a new account or pre-payment on presentation of pro forma invoice).

The completed order form, addressed to "Legalbrief Advertising", should be sent via email to: tdavids@juta.co.za
