

PUBLISHER'S NOTE TO REVISION SERVICE 22, 2014

Dear Subscriber

The Financial Markets Act 19 of 2012 ('FMA') repealed the Securities Services Act 36 of 2004 that governed the regulation and control of exchanges and securities trading.

The FMA aims to bring our legislation in line with international standards and practices, as a result of developments over the past few years in this area globally.

For Revision Service 22, the following chapters have been revised to reflect the legislative changes brought about by the FMA: chapters 1, 6, 7, 10, 15, 16, 18, 20 and 31.

A new part, Case Law, has also been added to the Main Volume binder. It contains a selection of relevant case summaries.

Please note that the Appendices have not been revised or updated. Our plan is to rework this publication in the near future to ensure that it remains the definitive reference work for all company secretaries.

We thank you for your continued interest in this publication and welcome feedback or suggestions you may have. Please mail your queries, comments or feedback to the publisher: mwagner@juta.co.za
