

The Society of Law
Teachers of Southern Africa

Conference 2017

THEME: Land Reform: Lessons for Law, Good Governance and Legal Education

Hosted by
Faculty of Law, University of Namibia (UNAM)

16 to 20 January 2017
The Dome Conference Centre, Swakopmund, Namibia

A Word of Welcome
Prof John Baloro

Dear Colleagues

On behalf of the staff and students of the UNAM Faculty of Law, I very warmly welcome all of you to the beautiful coastal resort town of Swakopmund, the venue for the 2017 Conference of the Society of Law Teachers of Southern Africa.

The UNAM Faculty of Law feels extremely privileged and honoured to have been invited to host this - Swakopmund (Swakop, for short) will be the second time that the Faculty is hosting this conference. The first time that we hosted you was in 2003. In that year, the conference was held at our main campus in Windhoek, the capital of Namibia. It is at this campus that the faculty is actually housed. At a personal level, I feel singularly privileged to be among the few law deans to have hosted the Society of Law Teachers of Southern Africa at this conference on two occasions. The first time in 1999 in Bloemfontein, South Africa, and now in 2017 in Swakopmund, Namibia.

Now, just a few words about our host town. Swakop is a singularly beautiful and historic town. It is well-known for its welcoming and relaxing ambience, and has extremely clean and attractive beaches that annually attract thousands of people from all over the world. You will be struck by its unique blend of old German architecture and the more modern genre. Swakop is also very close to the historic port of Walvis Bay. While you are here, I encourage you to explore not only Swakop and Walvis Bay and their environs, but also the rest of Namibia, if you have the opportunity. In Namibia, everybody and everything is beautiful. Please, enjoy the conference.

Kind regards,
Professor J. Baloro
Dean, Faculty of Law
University of Namibia
