EXPLANATORY SUMMARYCRIMINAL LAW (FORENSIC PROCEDURES) AMENDMENT BILL, 2013

The Criminal Law (Forensic Procedures) Amendment Bill, 2013 seeks to amend the Criminal Procedure Act, 1977 (Act No. 51 of 1977) to provide for the taking of specified bodily samples from certain categories of persons for the purposes of forensic DNA analysis; to provide for the forensic DNA profile derived from bodily samples being used to conduct a comparative search and for the conditions under which the samples or forensic DNA profiles derived from the samples, taken under the Act, are retained and destroyed within defined periods. The amendment also regulates proof of certain facts by affidavit or certificate.

The Amendment Bill further seeks to amend the South African Police Service Act, 1995 (Act 68 of 1995) to establish and regulate the administration and maintenance of the National Forensic DNA Database of South Africa that consists of a Crime Scene Index, an Arrestee Index, an Offenders Index, a Volunteer Index and an Elimination Index; to provide for parliamentary oversight and the establishment and composition of the National Forensic Oversight Board.

The Amendment Bill further seeks to amend the Firearms Control Act, 2000 (Act No 60 of 2000) by aligning certain definitions with the proposed amendments to the definitions in the Criminal Procedure Act, 1977 (Act No. 51 of 1977) and to further regulate the powers in respect of bodily samples; and to provide for matters connected therewith.

The Amendment Bill finally seeks to also amend the Explosives Act, 2003 (Act No.15 of 2003) by aligning certain definitions with the proposed amendments to the definitions in the Criminal Procedure Act, 1977 (Act No. 51 of 1977); to further regulate the powers in respect of bodily samples for investigation purposes; and to provide for matters connected therewith.
