Pluralism and Development

About this Publication:

This title comprises a collection of papers presented at a conference held at the University of Cape Town in 2010, which consider how development in Africa may best be achieved by concentrating on access to property from a pluralist perspective, with emphasis on land, the most important economic resource.

Contents Include:

- Access to property in Africa: An introductory survey - Thomas Bennett and Hanri Mostert
- Absolute ownership and legal pluralism in Roman law: Two arguments - Helen Scott
- Legal pluralism in Africa: The implications of state recognition of customary laws illustrated from the field of land law - Gordon Woodman
- Legal pluralism and access to land in Nigeria - Enyinna Nwauche
- The changing dynamics of customary land tenure: Women’s access to and control over land in Botswana - Anne Griffiths
- Taking the gap - ‘Living law land grabbing’ in the context of customary succession laws in Southern Africa - Chuma Himonga
- Securing women’s property inheritance in the context of plurality: Negotiations of law and authority in Mbusini customary courts and beyond - Sindiso Mnisi Weeks
- Contested power and apartheid tribal boundaries: The implications of ‘living customary law’ for indigenous accountability mechanisms - Aninka Claassens
- Lost in translation: Family title in Fingo village, Grahamstown, Eastern Cape - Rosalie Kingwill
- Land information as a tool for effective land administration and development - Gerrit Pienaar
- Legal pluralism – The investor’s view - Johann Schiller
- Promises of future performance and informal-sector transfers of personal property: The example of Anglophone Cameroon
Of Interest and Benefit to:

- Academics, South African and foreign – especially those with an interest in comparative law, customary law and property law
- Law libraries, South African and foreign