About this Publication:

The Marikana massacre of 16 August 2012, during which 34 miners on strike were shot and killed by police at the Lonmin Mine in South Africa’s North West province, remains a scar in the tissue of this newly democratic country. Several years after the massacre, and despite a lengthy commission of enquiry into the events around that date, there has still been no satisfactory political or legal accountability.

Mariolina Unresolved is a collection of chapters focused on the unsolved question of accountability for the massacre. It provides a cross-disciplinary account of what really happened, how the event has affected the current South African socio-political landscape and how it has changed public discourse on the mining sector, the labour market and national reconciliation. Written by highly regarded scholars and practitioners, it looks at the massacre from the perspectives of law, philosophy, media, politics, economics and public governance.

Contents Include:

- Chapter 1: History of the Marikana Massacre: A Starting Point – Peter Alexander
- Chapter 2: Money and Mining in Marikana: Microfinance, ‘Development Finance’ and Corporate Finance Under Conditions of Super-Exploitation – Patrick Bond
- Chapter 3: The Marikana Paradox: ‘Gaining the Remuneration but Losing the Union’ – Crispin Chinguno
- Chapter 4: The Failure of the Apartheid Corporate Model – William Gumede
- Chapter 5: The Killing Fields: Marikana and the Justice Deficit – Mia Swart
- Chapter 7: Ubuntu and Reported Moral Values After the Marikana Massacre – Colin Chasi
- Chapter 8: Reporting Marikana: What Went Wrong and has it Changed South African Journalism? – Ylva Rodny-Gumede
- Chapter 9: "To Mourn Together as a Nation: Representation and Erasure in Post-Marikana Political Discourse – Meghan Tinsley

© Copyright 2019 Juta and Company (Pty) Ltd
Of Interest and Benefit to:

Students of Law, Legal Philosophy, Media Studies, Politics and Public Governance, as well as practitioners and civil society groups interested in and concerned with public debates around the mining industry, the broader labour market and service delivery protests.