About this Publication:

Public Administration Challenges: Cases from Africa offers useful knowledge about typical lived realities of public administration in an African context.

Researched case studies enrich scholarly knowledge and understanding for public officials to better understand and manage the complex public administration challenges that they face. The case studies in this volume serve to integrate contextual knowledge and experience with theory in view of building an ethical, capable and developmental public service.

The case studies in this volume were borne from the partnership between the South African National School for Government (NSG) and European Union (EU). The project involved 25 researchers from five South African universities, the Ghana Institute of Public Management and Administration (GIMPA) and Particip (Germany).

The book's 15 case studies report on typical challenges in public administration in South Africa and Ghana by looking at:

- The Disastrous Gauteng Mental Health Marathon Project
- Child Support, School Nutrition And Feeding Programmes In South Africa And Ghana
- Governance And Accountability In Securing A Service-Provider To Pay Social Grants
- Financial Governance Challenges In South African Municipalities
- Problems With Wastewater In Emfuleni And With Providing Public Toilets In Ghana
- Access To Higher Education And Sustainable Risk Management At A Technical And Vocational Education And Training (TVET) College In South Africa
- Implementing Monitoring And Evaluation Frameworks And Social Innovation In South African Municipalities
- Employment Equity In The South African Police Service
- Employee Health And Wellness In The Kwazulu-Natal Provincial Administration.

Public Administration Challenges: Cases from Africa makes an original contribution to public administration scholarship. It can aid public servants in mastering statecraft and can enhance the skills and expertise needed to serve the public efficiently and professionally.
